

BREATHE. EASY.

Is a lung cancer screening right for you? Take the first step to find out if you are at High Risk.

Lung cancer is the leading cause of cancer death in America. The earlier it's detected, the easier it is to treat. The longer you've smoked, the more you should consider a lung cancer screening. You can be scanned in just a few minutes while lying on a table. It's painless and is typically covered 100% by your insurance.

To determine whether you have a high risk of developing lung cancer:

1. Are you between the ages of 55 and 77?
2. Are you a current smoker or have you quit within the last 15 years?
3. Do you have a cigarette smoking history of at least 30 pack-years*?

If you answered "yes" to all 3 questions, you might benefit from a lung cancer screening.

*30 pack-years is the equivalent of a pack a day for 30 years, or 2 packs a day for 15 years, or 1.5 packs a day for 20 years, etc.

Private insurance companies cover lung cancer screening for high-risk individuals. Medicare and Medicaid also cover lung cancer screening.
